The debts of English towns and citto $230,900,000.

A young man in Bridgeport, Va., thus answered an invitation from a young lady to attend a Leap-year par-ty: "Deer Miss, yours reseeved—I tumble."

Cole went to Wofford's house, at Franklin, La, pistel is hand, and said; "I have come to kill you—I mean business." "If you mean business," said Wofford, "here it is," and he shot Cole dead.

Two tramps undertook to rob and murder a man at Tuscumbia, Ala, but they were weak from long privations, while he was robust, and the conse-quence was that he killed one and fatally wounded the other.

The Cossacks number 4309 offi-cers and 152,514 men. They render military service without remuneration in lieu of paying taxes, in lieu of ra-tions, together with their arms and ammunition.

Next comes Jim Bennett [groans, hisses and cries of "Give it to him, Denis; don't spare him."]—the lep-rous proprietor of the New York Herald. [Renewed hisses and grosss.] He has raised his black flag against every noble principle and against every honest man—[cries of "That's ao"]—and to-day he is so deprayed in his nature that he cannot find enough deprayity on the American continent, consequently he is compelled to trans--[uproarious applause]—to spend the money that he filches from the pockets of the citizens of New York city.

What it Costs to Eun a Locomotive.

The New Jersey Central railros company keeps a record of the cost of running loosmotives. It shows that an average day's distance traveled by a locomotive is 100 miles. The work a locomotive is 100 miles. The work for a menth is 2600 miles; but some locometives exceed this, as in the case of No. 121, which in the last month made 6080 miles. In doing this 133 tons of coal were used, and 37 gallons of oil to keep the machinery in order. The company says that $12 86 is the average cost for 100 miles for men, fuel, and repairs. In the case of No. 121 the cost for repairs for the month was $22 58. Was $22 58.

ctin says: It has been taken for granted that if the water of the rivers and lakes were once brought in reach of the fertile lands of the West-side plain, the problem of rendering them uniformly and lastingly productive would have been solved.

Investigations showed that in mative fertility and supplies of plant food, these soils nearly resemble the best bettom lands of the Mississippi Valley, but they contain a small amount of nate of sods, sufficient to explain the drying out of crops at the approach of the dry season.

We now learn that a more thorough analysis, made of samples of water which were taken with especial care, off abore has shown the evil to be considerably greater than was originally supposed The water contains no less than eightyfour grains per gallon of soluble alkali salts, of which thirty-one are carbonate of soda; the remainder are insoluble sulphate and chloride, or common and Glauber's salts. To give som idea of what this implies, we may state that it is equivalent to one pound of this saline mixture (of the substances as commonly sold) to every barrel of forty gallons of water, seven ounces thereof being common sal-soda. In order to neutralize the caustic carbonate of soda; it would be neces eary to use about 150 pounds of gypsum per acre for every inch of water put on the land, or 1,500 pounds each season for the ten inches of water needed, on an average, for a grain crop. But unless the water were drained from the seil so as to remove the Glauber's and common salts, even these would soon accumulate to such an extent as to render the soil useless

If, then, we were forced to the conclusion that the mass of water at present filling up the bed of Tulare Lake is unfit for irrigating purposes, the question as to whether this state of things can in any way be remedied by draining and refilling from the river above, assumes a commanding importance; both as to the irrigation of the country below, and in respect to the possibility of reclaiming the exuberantly fertile soil on the shores of the lake. It remains, also, to be considered whether even the waters of the river can be permanently allowed to evaporate on the soil irrigated, or whether, as has been the case in India, such lands will in the course of a few decennia become alkali bogs.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, agent for the Continental Oil company, is in Beso. He has just returned from a trip to New York.

H. Ward, the Budje undertaker, who formerly lived in Rono, was in town last evening, and has gone to San Francisco for a brief visit. It was reported here a short time ago that he was dead. He called upon Mrs. Roff and other old friends last evening, and emphatically denied the atory of his decease.

The boys have great fun playing leep frog now. Their manner of playing is peculiar. One leaps from playing is peculiar. One leaps from a large boulder in the street near the school bouss, and decomds with all his weight upon the bent back of the boy who waits his spring. The leap accomplished, the two change positions, and the vaulting continues. Sometimes both "frogs" fall over to the ground together, adding to the fun—for the spectator.

and if anyone can go to Sacramento and buy as cheap, he will give them a blind bridle for nothing. A portion of Judge King's decision this morning was given in the following language: All the authorities (modern) hold that condonation is conditional forgiveness, the condition being that the aggrieved party should always thereafter be treated with kindness. To revive the offense condoned it is not necessary that the new dereliction should present substantive cause of action. If the forgiveness is based upon future conjugal kindness, then of course a failure to observe such kindness is a failure of such con-To revive the offense condoned

To call slander of chastity, at hom To call slander of chastity, at home and abroad; vituperation and insult, and threats of expulsion from home conjugal kindness would be a very sad perversion of terms. Of all sad homes, those would be saddest where "conjugal kindness" most prevailed. The effect of condonation, thus obliterated, is to revive the effense, to exhume it from its grave, once covered with the flowers of forgiveness, now uprooted by the hand that first of-fended.

Thus revived, the offense is as if it were of the present time and had never slumbered. Though once widely er slumbered. Though once widely separate, the two assaults and beatings are linked, together as it were, and brought into the foreground.

This view of condonation genders it unnecessary to consider the quality of what may be termed mental cruelty as constituting extreme cruelty.

Upon the whole, the complaint seems to be ample, and to fully authorize the complainant to maintain her action.

J. L. Crow, of Clover valley, Plumas county, was in town to-day. . He reports the snow about two feet in depth in the valley, with good sleighing. The snow has been three feet in depth there this winter. During the cold snap in the early part of January, the mercury sank to 38 belew zero. the mercury sank to 38 below zero. Se fer as heard from no eattle have perished in that vicinity this winter. The ranchers are glad to have plenty of snow, as they believe it ensures a heavy hay crop the following season. They have some fear of graashoppers, but otherwise the! prospect for good crops next summer is considered excellent. The deer have all left the hills about Clover valley and gone to Long valley and vicinity, or still furthes to Madeline plains. Game is very scarce, though a few white, or Arctic rabbits, are found in the valley during the are found in the valley during the winter. These animals are of a light brown color in summer, and turn per-fectly white with the coming of the snow. They are much larger and heavier than the common jack rabbit, and their ment is considered superior to either the jack's or cottontail's.

A sky more beautiful than was seen here last night could scarcely be conceived. The full moon was riding overhead, flooding the whole landscape with brilliant light, in which the snowy mountains were revealed in all their majesty and grandeur. The air was so clear and dry that they seemed very near, so close that it ap-peared but a short walk to the nearest peared but a short walk to the nearest summit, miles away. A long stretch of white cleuds, reposing above the eastern horizon, looked for all the world like a far distant range of lofty mountains, draped with dazzling snow. In the full radiance of the moon all but the greater stars were extinguished, but they seemed to burn with prismatic brightness against the deep blue of the heaves. A little after midnight Mars was low in the west, like a great coal of fire blazing over the Sierra.

The Lady Bryan Fraud. Senator Jones was in town night before last, and told W. R. Chamberlain that he was out $5,000 on Lady of Supt. Kelly, and he thinks that Kelly is innocent of any fraud in the matter. Chamberlain is of the same opinion. Some of those who had matter. Chamberlain is of the same opinion. Some of those who had bought Lady Bryan at high figures, escaped loss in a curious way. When they tasted sait, they were in such a hurry to unload that by duplicating orders to sail, they found themselves short on the market at middle figures. They filled at bottom prices and some of them actually made money by the break.

The Cheapest Paper in Nevada!

Is the largest daily on the Pacific railroads, and contains more home news than any paper in the State. To any one who is interested in stock raising, agricultural pur suits, or mining in western Nevada, the Evening Gazette would be worth thrice the money. The Gazette will be in the future, as in the past, devoted to spreading information of the resources of Washoe county first, and of the whole great interior basin next. Its mineral wealth, agricultural possibilities and manufacturing capacity are almost unknown an I furnish matter for the live journalist, second to no part of this coast.
